

S TABLE

BY GUBI

The S–Table was originally conceived by Marcel Gascoin in 1953 for the living quarters of officers and NCOs (noncommissioned officers) living onsite at the Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers Europe ('SHAPE') in Saint-Germain-en-Laye and Fontainebleau near Paris. Working with architects Felix Dumail, Jean Dubuisson, Marcel Lods and Maurice Cammas, Gascoin realized the pragmatically conceived table could also have a practical application in the compact civilian homes being built all over France after the Second World War. Its innovative extending functionality and clean lines soon turned it into a household staple – the same utilitarian characteristics that make it ideal for modern homes today.
